

Paul Sofianos

Chairman of the Supervisory Board

A holder of degrees in Economics and Political Science conferred by the University of Massachusetts and London School of Economics. Earned a Juris Doctorate (JD) in law at the University of Miami, focusing on Commercial and Admiralty Law.

In his 30 year career, Paul has applied his business acumen on behalf of FMCG leaders in 20 countries, including over 20 years in Russia and Poland.

Paul first arrived to Eastern Europe (specifically to Russia) in 1995 and came to Poland when Hortex Holdings S.A. the largest juice and food processing company in Eastern and Central Europe, engaged him as Vice President and General Manager. The shareholders charged him with the challenge of restructuring operations and sales, developing new business and markets and leading strategic planning. His success at Hortex motivated the US-Russia Investment Fund, Delta Capital Management, to recruit him as Senior Vice President and Head of Direct Investment. Several of Russia's leading domestic and multinational companies, including Sun-Interbrew, CTC Communications, Saint Springs Water and Lomonosov Porcelain Factory, have recognized his expertise by appointing him on their respective management boards.

Currently he is the Chairman of the Prologics Group, specializing in logistics, department store retail, medical disposables, and outsourcing, mainly in Russia and Poland.
